4900 Manatee Ave. West, Suite 104, Bradenton, FL 34209

1-877-506-NAFI 1-941-242-2323

Dear Fire/Explosion Investigation Professional:

We want to commend you on your interest in the Certified Fire and Explosion Investigator (CFEI) Program. Your desire to become certified shows your commitment and professionalism.

As you may know, The National Association of Fire Investigators was organized in 1961 by a group of fire and explosion investigation professionals who recognized the need for an organization which would provide timely and topical professional training and education for its members who were involved in the investigation and analysis of fire and explosion incidents and the civil and criminal litigation which ensues from such investigations and analyses. To that end, the primary goal of the National Association of Fire Investigators is to increase the knowledge and improve the skills of its members relative to the investigation and analysis of fire and explosion incidents.

To accomplish this goal, the National Association of Fire Investigators has become the recognized leader in the field of fire and explosion investigation and analysis through its sponsorship of international, national and regional professional training and education programs.

Through its International Certification Board, established in 1982, the National Association of Fire Investigators administers the Certified Fire and Explosion Investigator (CFEI), Certified Fire Investigation Instructor (CFII) and Certified Vehicle Fire Investigator (CVFI) certification programs. These programs serve to recognize and document the knowledge, training, education and experience of qualified investigators and instructors.

This booklet contains the information necessary to participate in the CFEI program. We hope you will find it useful. Should you have any questions after your review of these materials, please feel free to contact us.

Sincerely,

National Association of Fire Investigators

Certified Fire and Explosion Investigator Certification (CFEI) Program Guidelines

History, Intent, and Objectives

The Board of Directors of the National Association of Fire Investigators (NAFI), a not-for-profit, international organization of fire and explosion investigation professionals, created the International Certification Board at its annual meeting in 1982. With the proliferation of fire and explosion investigation professionals during the 1960's and 1970's, it was recognized that a need had arisen for an accepted method and measurable standard of evaluating the professional knowledge and qualifications. Since its inception in 1982, the International Certification Board has evaluated and certified fire and explosion investigation professionals throughout the world.

In fact, the certification activities of the International Certification board have been recognized by the National Fire Protection Association's National Fire Code NFPA 921, entitled Guide for Fire and Explosion Investigations. The Sources of Information chapter of NFPA 921 states, "The Association also originated and implemented the International Certification Board. Each year, the Board certifies fire and explosion investigators and fire investigation instructors. Through this program, those certified are recognized for their knowledge, training and experience and accepted for their expertise." The Certified Fire and Explosion Investigator (CFEI) certification program is administered by the National Association of Fire Investigators' (NAFI) International Certification Board.

The intent of the International Certification Board's Certified Fire and Explosion Investigator (CFEI) certification program is to increase the professional knowledge and improve the analytical skills of those persons who engage in the investigation and analysis of fire and explosion incidents and/or participate in the civil and criminal litigation which ensues from such investigations and analyses.

The objectives of the CFEI program include the following:

- To promote excellence in the professional training, education and experience of fire and explosion investigators and analysts and/or the participants in the civil and criminal litigation which ensues from such investigations and analyses.
- To provide a recognized and standardized system for the evaluation of the professional knowledge and qualifications of individuals who engage in the investigation and analyses of fire and explosion incidents and/or participate in the civil and criminal litigation which ensues from such investigations and analyses.
- To recognize qualified fire and explosion investigators and analysts and/or practitioners in related civil and criminal litigation.

Certified Fire and Explosion Investigator (CFEI) Certification Program Administration

The Certified Fire and Explosion Investigator (CFEI) certification program is administered by the National Association of Fire Investigators' (NAFI) International Certification Board. The International Certification Board is a standing committee and its members elected by the membership. For additional details please see the International Certification Board document.

Confidentiality of International Certification Board Records - See Member Inquiry Form

The National Association of Fire Investigators is a not-for-profit professional organization incorporated under the applicable laws of the State of Illinois and is registered with the Illinois Secretary of State. The Association is not affiliated with or part of any federal, state or local governmental agency or entity.

As such, the records of the International Certification Board are not subject to the requirements of any federal, state or local Freedom of Information laws, administrative policies or ordinances.

All records of the International Certification Board, therefore, remain strictly confidential between the applicant and the Board with only two (2) limited exceptions. The International Certification Board will respond to written requests regarding an applicant's certification status. In addition, the International Certification Board will appropriately respond to any and all legally binding subpoenas and/or court orders. Notification of such responses will be made to the applicant who is the subject of the subpoena and/or court order.

Overview of the Certified Fire and Explosion Investigator (CFEI) Certification Program

The focus of the International Certification Board is to provide a formal and standardized evaluation system for identifying and recognizing those individuals who have the professional training, education and experience to investigate fire and explosion incidents and/or participate in the civil and criminal litigation which ensues from such investigations and analyses.

CFEI Certification through the International Certification Board is achieved via a two-part process.

Part 1 – Application Review and Approval by the International Certification Board

Application approval is dependent on meeting the Minimum Certification Requirements. No applicants will be allowed to take the CFEI exam without an approved application. Enrollment in a NAFI sponsored or cosponsored training program does not guarantee that an applicant's application will be approved.

Part 2 – CFEI Examination

Applicants with approved applications will be allowed to take the CFEI exam. Upon successful completion of the exam, CFEI certification will be issued.

There is no other process to achieve the CFEI certification.

While certification by the International Certification Board does not, in and of itself, qualify an applicant as an expert witness for purposes of civil and criminal litigation, applicants have historically utilized the certification as a significant foundation for attaining such recognition and designation in the courtroom.

ADA Compliance and Special Accommodations

NAFI provides special accommodations in accordance with the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1991 (ADA). If a disability prevents you from taking the examination under normal conditions, you may request special accommodations. A written request for special accommodations must accompany your application upon submission. This request must explain the name of the disability (i.e., the diagnosis) and the type of accommodations you feel are appropriate. NAFI reserves the right to ask for supporting documentation of the diagnosis from a qualified healthcare professional. After receiving the request and appropriate documentation, you will be contacted to make the special accommodation arrangements.

Alternative arrangements can also be made for individuals with sensory, visual, orthopedic, or other handicaps that would prevent them from taking the examination under standard conditions. A written request for special accommodations must accompany your application upon submission.

Non-Discrimination

The International Certification Board evaluates all individuals applying without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, national origin, age or disability. This information is not collected or available to the International Certification Board when they make their evaluation of an individual's qualifications.

Application Fee

Applications to the International Certification Board for certification as a Certified Fire and Explosion Investigator (CFEI) must be accompanied by a non-refundable application fee of $125.00 (U.S. Funds). (This fee may be reduced in conjunction with a NAFI Sponsored Training Program.)

The required application fee may be submitted in the form of a check or money order (in US Funds drawn on a US bank) made payable to the National Association of Fire Investigators (NAFI) or by a MasterCard, Visa, American Express or Discover card utilizing the payment Authorization Form included in the application materials. NAFI does not accept purchase orders.

Minimum Certification Requirements

Consistent with the intent and objectives of the Certified Fire and Explosion Investigator (CFEI) certification program, the International Certification Board has established the following minimum certification requirements:

- The applicant must be a member in good standing of the National Association of Fire Investigators (NAFI) and membership must be kept current after certification to maintain CFEI status.
- The applicant must be at least eighteen (18) years of age.
- The applicant must demonstrate that he/she has a high school diploma, G.E.D. or equivalent certification.
- The applicant must demonstrate that he/she is of good moral character and will honor the principles set forth in the Code of Ethics of the National Association of Fire Investigators (NAFI).
- The applicant must meet or exceed the minimum of 150 Credits and the absolute minimums set forth in the application.
- The applicant must demonstrate that he/she is actively involved in the investigation and analysis of fire and explosion incidents and/or the civil and criminal litigation that ensues from such investigations and analyses.
- The applicant must demonstrate that he/she has responsibility within his/her company and/or department to participate in the investigation and analysis of fire and explosion incidents and/or the civil and criminal litigation that ensues from such investigations and analyses.
- The applicant must demonstrate that he/she has received professional training and education in the investigation and analysis of fire and explosion incidents and/or the practice of civil and criminal litigation, which ensues from such investigations and analyses.
- The applicant must demonstrate that he/she possesses the minimum level of professional knowledge necessary to conduct an investigation and analyses of a fire and explosion incident and/or participate in the civil and criminal litigation, which ensues from such investigations and analyses.

- The applicant must demonstrate that he/she can practically apply the professional training and education he/she has received in the investigation and analysis of fire and explosion incidents and/or the civil and criminal litigation which ensues from such investigations and analyses.

Provisional Certification

Provisional certification (CFEI-p) is occasionally offered at the discretion of the International Certification Board to an applicant who has a minimum of 120 Credits but falls short on the absolute minimums set forth in this application.

In such cases, the International Certification Board reserves the right to offer the applicant provisional certification provided the applicant successfully completes the written certification evaluation. The applicant's certification remains provisional until such time that he/she can provide the Board with additional information, which demonstrates that the applicant now meets the Minimum Certification Requirements by submitting an Application for Removal of Provisional.

In any case, all provisional certifications will expire two (2) years following the original date of its issuance.

CFEI Appeals Process – See Certification Appeals Form

An individual or CFEI who feels that their application for certification or recertification was unfairly denied or wrongfully failed the certification examination, may file a written appeal to the International Certification Board. The Certification Appeal Form must be received by NAFI no later than 14 days after receiving notice of denial or failure.

The International Certification Board will address all appeals within 14 days. The appeal is to be dealt with by the Chairman of the International Certification Board or the entire International Certification Board. The appeal process is kept confidential and all records of shall be maintained by NAFI for at least five (5) years.

The appeals decision of the Chairman of the International Certification Board and the International Certification Board are final. If the International Certification Board feels the appeal is procedural in nature, they may bring it before the Board of Governors. In which the Board of Governors will have an additional 14 days to respond.

Member Grievances and Complaints – See Member Grievances and Complaint Form

Complaints against NAFI members and CFEIs must be made in writing and provide supportive documentation. General complaints about character, reputations or rumors without supporting documentation will not be reviewed by the International Certification Board. Complaints and disputes will be reviewed at the next upcoming International Certification Board meeting unless the situation requires immediate action, then a special International Certification Board meeting will be convened by the Chairman.

Revocation of Certification

Only in the most serious cases will a certification be revoked. The revocation of certifications will have an ever-lasting impact on an individual's career and reputation, therefore the International Certification Board will not take this action without a thorough investigation and possible hearing. Revocation of certification and related investigations will be conducted by the International Certification Board. Once an individual's certification is revoked, they will never again be eligible for any certification by the NAFI and may be eliminated as a NAFI member. Elimination of NAFI membership must be acted on by the Board of Governors, as stated in the NAFI's By Laws and Constitution.

The grounds for revocation or suspension must be for a supportable cause. These causes can be, but no limited to: attempted or successful fraud, misrepresentation, improper conduct, conviction for a felony of any type and/or any other activity that breaches the NAFI Code of Ethics.

Use of NAFI and Certification Logos

As a member of NAFI or CFEI in good standing, you may use the appropriate logo for your membership status on business letterhead, business card, social media pages and other material you wish to show your association with NAFI. Remember that it is an individual that holds membership and certifications not an organization, department or company. You must follow the following guidelines when using NAFI and CFEI logos. The logo may not be revised or altered in any way.

The CFEI logo is meant for individuals who achieved the CFEI certification and no others within their organization, department or company. The phrase Certified Fire and Explosion Investigators and the initials CFEI are to be used by those individuals current, members in good standing. Failure to recertify voids the individual's right to use such logo and phrases.

Use of the NAFI or CFEI logo do not constitute an endorsement by NAFI and care should be taken when using the logos as to not imply such an endorsement exists.

To request a color and black and white electronic versions of the NAFI and CFEI logos, please email info@nafi.org

Certified Fire and Explosion Investigator (CFEI) Written Certification Evaluation

Participation in the Certified Fire and Explosion Investigator (CFEI) written certification evaluation is offered to approved applicants by the International Certification Board in only the following approved manners:

- is offered periodically each year in conjunction with NAFI sponsored training programs.
- by a proctor nominated by the applicant and approved by the International Certification Board. The proctor must meet all of the proctor requirements listed on the Proctor Designation Form and agree to the terms on the Proctor Contract. The International Certification Board reserves the right to reject a nominated proctor.
- group proctoring can be approved at the discretion of the International Certification Board and NAFI Membership Services. Group proctoring sessions must be registered at <http://www.nafi.org/learn/group/> and must follow the prescribed group testing procedures.
- by prearranged appointment at the NAFI Membership Services Office.

The CFEI Exam:

- consists of one hundred (100) questions selected randomly from a question pool maintained by the International Certification Board. The questions are of the multiple-choice and true/false variety. All questions are based on the current edition of NFPA 1033 and taken from the current edition of NFPA 921.
- maximum of two (2) hours is allowed in which to complete the written certification evaluation.
- no reference materials or outside assistance are permitted.
- minimum score of seventy-five percent (75%) must be attained to receive a passing score on the written certification evaluation. The International Certification Board, however, records an applicant's performance on the written certification evaluation, only as pass/fail.

Applicants who fail to attain a passing score on the written certification evaluation must wait six (6) months following the date of the original test date to apply for a retest. A CFEI retest application must be submitted. However, they must retest within 12 months of their original test date. After 12 months the applicant must reapply.

Proof of Identity

You are responsible for bringing a valid photo ID to take the CFEI exam. Proctors are required by the signed Proctor Contract to validate an individual's identity and those without a valid ID will be denied access to the examination. Valid ID must be a current government issued picture ID. Acceptable forms of government issued ID include a driver's license, passport, military ID, federal, state or county issued ID.

You will not be permitted to take the examination without a valid photo ID.

Re-certification Criteria

To ensure that Certified Fire and Explosion Investigators (CFEI) certified by the International Certification Board remain current with the theoretical and technological advancements in the field of fire and explosion investigation and analysis, the International Certification Board requires re-certification every five years based upon the applicant's original date of certification.

CFEI re-certification will be granted only to those applicants meeting the current re-certification criteria written by the International Certification Board of the National Association of Fire Investigators. Re-certification is obtained by providing sufficient documentation to verify that the re-certification criteria have been met. Detailed recertification criteria can be found at <http://www.nafi.org/certification/recertification.cfm>

Members who fail to recertify within one year of their re-certification date will be required to submit an application to retest for CFEI Re-certification and retesting fee of $125.

Tips for CFEI Applicants

Use these helpful instructions to ensure that your application has a better chance of being approved on the first submission.

- Don't submit your application until you are ready to take the exam. Also consider any vacations, travel or work commitments before you apply. Once the exam reaches your proctor you have a 14 day window to schedule and complete your exam session. You are responsible for making sure that your proctor is available to administer the test during the 14 day window.
- All sections of the application are required. For sections in which you have a negative answer or no information please put "none", "not applicable", or "0". Applications deemed to be incomplete will be returned to the applicant and will significantly delay the approval process.
- Type your application or print legibly.
- It is not permissible to write "See Resume" or "See CV". You may attach your CV or Resume as an additional supporting document, but it cannot replace responses on the application form. Doing this will guarantee that your application will be rejected!
- When in doubt -- ask. It is much easier and faster to call or email the membership services office with a question prior to submitting your application, than to redo your application after it has been rejected. We're here to help.
- More information is always better than less. Give the International Certification Board all the relevant information to make an informed decision regarding your application. Use Applicant Narrative section to include any additional information you consider relevant but was not specifically asked for in the body of the application.
- Don't forget to sign. This is one of the top reasons for application rejection and processing delays.
- Include complete and accurate proctor information (not needed if taking at a NAFI sponsored training program.) Your proctor forms must be included with your application. Do not send them separately. It is your responsibility to find a proctor. If you are having trouble, you may search Proctor volunteers on the NAFI member directory on NAFI.org. Tests will be delivered directly to the proctor via express carrier upon approval of your application by the International Certification Board. You will be notified by email of your approval and test delivery.
- Payment for application fee must be included with your application if you are applying to take the exam with a Proctor.

4. National Fire and Explosion Investigator Certification is based upon the results of the examination and evaluation of my professional qualifications by the National Certification Board. I understand that the Board's decisions are final.

The examination must be returned to the NAFI office postmarked within 2 weeks of receipt by the approved, designated proctor and within 3 days of the actual testing date. I may not consult any published materials or literature during the answering of the examination questions. A minimum of 75% correct answers on the examination is required for certification.
